

FOGLESS MIRROR

Abstract

A fogless mirror having a mirror, a heater element and a light assembly. The mirror includes a transparent substrate and reflective coating attached to the transparent substrate. The mirror has at least one light transmissive region. The heater element is mounted with respect to the mirror. The light assembly is mounted with respect to the mirror such that light emitted from the light assembly passes through the light transmissive region.